

TEN PRISONERS SENTENCED

SIX ARE SENT TO THE EASTERN PENITENTIARY.

One to Huntingdon Reformatory, Two to Jail and Sentence Suspended on one, on Probation

On last Saturday morning President Judge S. McC. Swope and Associate Judges Geo. H. Trostle and C. D. Smith sat for the purpose of sentencing the prisoners who had pleaded guilty to the crimes with which they had been charged at the August court. Sheriff Fissel brought into court eleven prisoners and a twelfth one surrendered for sentence, being out on bail.

Judge Swope first explained that the last Legislature had made a decided change in the imposition of sentences in criminal cases. Previously the court fixed a maximum sentence to be served but under the new law the court fixed the minimum term and the maximum is the term fixed by the law. That when a prisoner is now sent to the penitentiary he goes for the minimum period fixed by the court. At the expiration of this time prison inspectors will study the cases and recommend to the Governor to parole the prisoner or withhold such recommendation until the inspectors believe they are fit subjects to be paroled at large. During parole officers keep a watch on prisoners and if any offense is given they can be re-arrested and made to serve the full maximum sentence the law provides for offenses. It is expected to prepare better citizens in this way who when parole is removed will become useful citizens. The new law extends right of suspending sentence and putting one on probation for the first offense. At the conclusion of explanation of new law the court called up prisoners and following sentences were imposed.

Arthur W. Douglass, District Attorney Neely stated the facts of how prisoner when employed at Wabash Hotel had an altercation with a fellow employee and procured a pistol at the Coldwater Store and shot three times at Chas. Powell. Defendant had lived twelve years in Gettysburg and it was his first offense. Wm. Hersh, Esq., representing the prisoner, called attention to the fact that prisoner was under the influence of liquor, and presented petition of prisoner asking for mercy as a first offender. Petitions of E. F. Kindig and John Martin, hotel proprietors, in whose employ prisoner had been at different times and never giving offense were presented asking leniency and also petition of aged parents, saying he was an only son and their support. Judge Swope in passing sentence stated that from the evidence of previous good behavior the court was disposed to feel that the jail imprisonment already suffered was a lesson so that you will not offend again. But the offense must be made offensive. You took the law in your hands when you went gunning for the man. You disturbed the peace of the town and alarmed the citizens. You might have killed some innocent one or the man you were after. The lesson must be taught that the peace of the public cannot be so disturbed without punishment. As an example it is the intention of court to sentence you to warn others not to carry firearms. There is no reason for one to carry them. You are sent as an example so that safety of public can be preserved. Prisoner was then given minimum term of one year in the Eastern Penitentiary and maximum of seven years.

George Sheaffer, the District Attorney explained, had stolen boards from lumber yard; boards had been marked so they could be identified. Four years previously he had pleaded guilty to the theft of hose at Globe Hotel, and had been recently charged with furnishing liquor. Judge Swope in passing sentence, said the prisoner was unfortunate because of his bad habit of drinking that he was well raised, a good workman and when sober a good citizen, but when your habit has hold you will offend. We feel we are doing you and your friends a favor by putting you where you will not get any drink, where your physical body will be reformed and make hopeful for an entire reformation. Resolve that you can be a sober man and that you will be and you will become a useful citizen. He was sentenced to a minimum term in the Eastern Penitentiary of one year and a maximum of three years.

Irish Tom, who said his last name was Kelly, the District Attorney explained, had killed a dog supposed to be mad and had received money from craters, citizens and proceeded then to make a nuisance of himself. Judge Swope asked him how long he had been making periodical visits to Gettysburg and Tom answered, "Twenty-two years. I like to come to see you once in a while." County Detective Wilson was asked about the man and stated that when sober he did not offend but when he gets liquor he gets bad and must be locked up. Judge Swope addressing prisoner said, "This is the season you don't like to be in jail," and received reply, "I must make a dollar now for the winter." Tom was given a sentence of one month in jail.

Robert Wilson and Wm. Green, colored, District Attorney Neely explained, were entire strangers and had broken into house of John F. Wetzel of Highland township in day time, stealing articles of clothing, shoes and a little money, that Wilson was 19 years old, father and mother dead, and Green 22 years old, deserted by father. That they belonged to Pittsburgh and were going to Baltimore. One of them had been shot before arrested and statement was made that a number of shot entered his back from which he had suffered. Judge Swope said the court looked upon them as outcasts and dangerous young men and that they should learn to be honest and keep from taking other people's property; they were sentenced to a minimum sentence in the Penitentiary of 2 years and six months and a maximum term of ten years.

John Bargan, it was explained, had helped himself to a piece of meat from a refrigerator on the porch of a McSherrystown residence. The prisoner said he had been selling shoe laces and was drinking. That Washington was his home, where he lived 46 years and had worked on the railroads, but recently hadn't been doing much, bought shoe laces and sold them in Abbotstown, East Berlin, Hanover, and then went to McSherrystown and had been drinking in all these places, and had not eaten much for three days and when he saw the meat, took it and pleaded in extenuation that it had a long bone in it. He admitted that he had been arrested in Gettysburg six or seven years ago for begging, and that in 1878 he had done time for stealing near Ellicott City. The prisoner, in referring to the three months he had served in jail here, said as soon as he got out he took to the road and went as fast as he could to Maryland. The court told him he was entitled to some consideration for unfolding his past life but if court was lenient it would be dangerous to come here again, and Bargan was not sure of any reformation for he said "If I was real hungry I'm sure I would take something to eat, after being three days without food and drinking, and it was a piece of meat with a big bone in it." The court sentenced prisoner to three months in jail.

Archie Clay, District Attorney Neely explained, broke into tool house of W. M. R. at night and stole a number of pieces of brass fittings. In 1895 he was sent to Reformatory for larceny and receiving stolen goods, and in 1905 had been arrested for assault and had been put on good behavior for a year. J. Donald Swope, Esq., representing prisoner stated that charge was committed when under influence of liquor. That his first offense was fourteen years ago, when a boy, and that he had conducted himself creditably in many ways. He had joined the 9th U. S. Cavalry and served for a year, and re-enlisted went to the Philippines and served three years, being in a number of engagements there. When honorably discharged at the expiration of service he had enlisted in the navy and was a coal heaver and would have been there yet if he did not suffer from gall stones and for this disability was given an honorable discharge and by reason thereof was unable to do hard manual labor. Judge Swope, addressing prisoner, said he was sorry to see him before court again, that he knew of no young colored man who had had the advantages of the prisoner, the best of homes, the benefit of reformatory, the benefit of the discipline of Uncle Sam on land and sea, but instead of being a comfort to your people you are a source of sorrow, and that it was best now to see what benefit the discipline of the Penitentiary would now give, and he was given a minimum sentence of one year and a maximum of ten years.

Edward Wilson, colored, District Attorney explained, was a foreigner, and broke into house of Annie Johnson, and stole articles of clothing and tried to sell them and they were recognized and he was caught. Sheriff Fissel had been given more trouble by this prisoner than any other, he had made violent threats, did mean things and finally had to be kept locked up continuously. The prisoner explained that his home was in Virginia and that he had been taken to New York to work in a brick yard during a strike and when it was over had to work his way home and came here from Highfield. He was sentenced to Penitentiary for a minimum of two years and six months and maximum of ten years.

Clarence Dull and Augustus Freshman, who had been arrested during the week for the robbery of warehouse of John Stallsmith at Granite, had pleaded guilty and were in court for sentence. Dull had pleaded guilty to stealing money out of a slot machine of J. B. Wineman and while in custody at Washington county Md., officer came after him on a charge of stealing a bicycle and he was released in that state on his own recognizance to be of good behavior for three years. Wm. Hersh, Esq., representing the Freshman boy, stated that his client was 17 years old and Dull 18 years, that Freshman was not strong mentally, that he helped his mother, that boys had started along railroad on a jaunt and when they reached Granite, Dull crawled into warehouse and got the money, later giving Freshman $17. Dull admitted that he took money. A number of citizens asked for leniency for Freshman boy. Judge Swope sentenced Clarence Dull to the Huntingdon Reformatory for such term as the managers may see fit to hold him. Though charged for a number of larcenies, the boy had never suffered any imprisonment and court was of the opinion that the Reformatory might work the desired reformation of the boy.

To Augustus Freshman Judge Swope said that the court had a number of the very best citizens calling upon him assuring the court of his honesty. George W. Steinour, E. P. Wisotzky, Dr. C. E. Eckenrode, Charles Moore and John Zhea had spoken favorably of boy, the latter saying he had known him since a baby and never had the slightest suspicion that the boy would take what did not belong to him. The court then suspended sentence and put boy on probation for one year. If you are a good boy you will be discharged at end of year, but if a bad boy you will be arrested and sentenced.

Leo Claybaugh, 15 years old in June, and Chas. Cassatt, 16 years old, were in court and as District Attorney Neely explained, pleaded guilty to breaking into store of Blind David Welkert at Round Top and stealing cigars, cakes, tobacco and candy. The court desired more information as to the offense and the boys. It was stated that one of the boys on a recent night had caught hold of a Cumberland township citizen saying, "Your money or your life," and when reprimanded by the citizen for the attack asked for the loan of five cents. Judge Swope directed that Sheriff Fissel retain custody of the two boys and that they be brought into court on Sept. 20 for sentence.

Prisoners Taken Away.

On Monday morning Deputy Sheriff George Fissel with help of Geo. W. Topper of Mountjoy township, Grover Bream and Jos. Bream of Cumberland township, Levi Reinecker of Huntingdon township and J. W. Elcholtz of Gettysburg, started for the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia, with the six prisoners, Douglass, Robt. Wilson, Green, Ed. Wilson, Clay and Sheaffer. Sheriff Fissel and wife took Clarence Dull to the Reformatory at Huntingdon, Pa.

This exodus did not empty the jail, as Sheriff Fissel still has thirteen boarders.

GONE OVER THE DIVIDE

DISTRICT ATTORNEY AMMON, OF YORK COUNTY

Found Dead in His Barn—Faced Serious Charges—Every Indication of Suicide.

WILLIAM LESTER AMMON, District Attorney of York county, was found dead in the loft of his stable on Wednesday morning of last week. He was born in Lancaster county. His parents moved to York county when he was three weeks old. After attending the schools of that county and the York County Academy, he came to Gettysburg College and graduated in the class of 1893. He was an active figure in college life while here. After reading law in office of Gels, Ziegler and Strawbridge, he was admitted to the Bar of York county in 1894. A few years ago he became active in politics in his county and last fall was elected District Attorney of York county, carrying a salary of $4000.

The manner of his death is mysterious, though believed to have been a suicide by poisoning. He had been secretary of the Standard Building and Loan Association of York for 15 years and when compelled to resign his accounts were found to be short. An expert was engaged with the accounts last week and officers of the association had had several interviews with Ammon and gave him to understand on last one, Tuesday night, that unless he made good the shortage, which had run up to over $40,000 he would be prosecuted. He was given until Wednesday noon to make good.

On his way home on Tuesday evening he bought a pound of deadly poison, cyanide of potassium. What became of the poison has not yet been discovered. It is thought a large quantity was purchased to deceive as for his intentions, saying it was for experiment with copper. A small amount was found in an envelope in the business suit he had prepared to wear on Wednesday. On that morning he put on a rough suit and went to the barn to attend his horse as was his custom and later was found dead in the loft. The coroner and physicians say he died from weak heart which went to pieces under the strain of work and threatened prosecution, though many believe it was suicide by poison.

Criminal court was in session in York county with over 100 cases to go to grand jury and when death of Ammon was announced on Wednesday morning, the court adjourned until afternoon when Harvey A. Gross, the assistant, was appointed district attorney and proceeded with the work of the court.

Later in the week a receiver for the Standard Building and Loan Association was appointed as the books showed it to be hopelessly wrecked.

It is stated in the York papers that his relations with a York married woman had become so notorious that the woman's husband had threatened a $10,000 damage suit for the alienation of his wife's affections.

In 1897 Mr. Ammon married Miss Nettie M. Reichley of York and known here. He is survived by his wife, a son Bronly and adopted son Lester, two brothers and three sisters, all of York.

His death is the closing chapter in the career of a young man of great promise, who was afflicted with melancholia, and at the age of 21 years was removed to the institution at Harrisburg where he remained in the ward for incurables. Before his sad affliction Mr. Mummert was a school teacher in Adams county and taught at the Brutsch school. One day while in a state of mental aberration, he inflicted a wound in his hip with a revolver. He never became rational after that, and was committed to the hospital for treatment. ASK FOR TROLLEY FRANCHISE

COMMITTEE APPOINTED ARE CONSIDERING REQUEST.

It is Said Rights of Way Have Been Secured from McSherrystown to Gettysburg.

The Town Council met in special session Friday evening to consider the application of the McSherrystown and Hanover Street Railway Company for a franchise. All the Councilmen were present but one. President Hamilton called meeting to order. John D. Keith, Esq., and Robert McKinnon, engineer of the Company, were present representing the Company.

Mr. Keith formally presented the request of the railway company, setting out that W. H. Lanus and others contemplated building a line from McSherrystown to Gettysburg and desired a franchise before applying for a charter as required by law. The route asked for covered 2000 feet, running from Rock Creek at borough line and passing through lands of W. C. Sheely, W. T. Ziegler, S. McC. Swope, D. M. Wolf and E. P. Sachs to Middle St. and then by said street to corner of Baltimore street at Court House. It was proposed to occupy the center of the street and keep part between rails and a foot on the other side in same condition as other portion of the street. It was agreed to indemnify the borough from all damages in building and operation of the road. It was stipulated that a charter would be asked for within one year after franchise is granted and that road would be built within one year after charter is granted. It was indicated that early action was desired so that company might know where it stood in matter of a franchise before the Trustee's sale of the Gettysburg Transit Company as under certain circumstances they might be possibly bidders at the sale of that company.

The request of the railroad was discussed at some length. Some of the councilmen were of the opinion that Middle street was too narrow and that the railway should be by York street. The question of whether it should be an L rail or a T rail was also discussed but the opinion prevailed that councilmen should have more time to inform themselves and a motion carried that a committee of three be appointed to investigate into the matter of the request made and report at the next regular meeting in September. Councilmen Butt, Tawney and Trostle were named as the Committee. This Committee will then present an ordinance giving the franchise with the conditions.

It is said that the railway has two complete routes, one following the New Oxford pike, and the other from New Oxford to Bonneauville and thence following a contour of water courses, by an easy grade, crossing the Bonneauville road and through the Houck farm to Rock Creek, crossing that stream in neighborhood of Two Rocks. It is said that this last route seems the more preferable one and that all rights of way for it have practically been secured from McSherrystown to Gettysburg with the exception of a farm in vicinity of former place.

CLEVELAND--A PARTY MAN

WORKED AT POLLS--NEVER ENGAGED IN ANYTHING CORRUPT

Some of the Interesting Things to be Found in the September Magazine.

Mr. Cleveland was decidedly a party man. He believed that every man should be active in politics, and he practiced this doctrine from early manhood. After his retirement we had a talk about it, in which he spoke as having had a letter from a young man, asking his advice concerning party affiliations. He said he told him of his own experience, how he had early gone into local party work, standing all day at the polls. Mr. Cleveland added, "I never had anything to do with anything that was shady or corrupt."

I sometimes had an amused suspicion, that although he admired, and was grateful to the Independents who came to his support more than once, and although he felt a keen moral sympathy with them, and gave some of them his intimate friendship, the fact that they had been Republicans, and might easily become Republicans again, was just a slight regret in his mind. When off on some inland fishing expedition, he fell in with an old-time Democratic farmer, especially one who was faithful to what the President considered "sound Democratic doctrine," he warmed up to the old fellow amazingly.

I do not believe he ever voted for a candidate outside of his party. He might have been willing to do so in certain campaigns in his later years, possibly--owing to what he looked upon as undemocratic platforms and candidates--if he had not possessed an ever-present sense of obligation, because of the great honor and responsibilities his party had bestowed upon him. He doubtless voted at times for Democrats not on the "regular ticket," but a feeling of propriety kept him from vehemently opposing a candidate of his party, even if such a candidate in his opinion, might be leading the party into strange and unfortunate paths. From Richard Watson Gilder's "Cleveland's Re-election and Second Administration" in the September Century.

Church Giving on Decline.

Ray Stannard Baker, writing in the September American Magazine on what he calls "The Faith of the Un-churched," says that he was surprised not long ago, when he was told by one of the foremost church laymen in New York City, in answer to his query as to why the churches were losing ground, that the trouble was the lack of money. Mr. Baker continues:

"By this, he said, he did not, of course, mean to imply that money in itself would make a church successful, or the lack of it would necessarily mean failure.

"But money giving," he explained, that is, spontaneous money giving, is the surest evidence of vital human interest. A man does not voluntarily give his good dollars to a cause unless that cause really stirs him; and we in the churches must face the fact that people are no longer giving to the churches as they once did."

"This remark set me to examining somewhat carefully the long lists of bequests and benevolences of the past few years in this country; and I have been astonished to find how completely the great streams of voluntary and spontaneous giving have been diverted from the churches, and from church work generally.

"During the past ten or twelve years the almost inconceivably enormous sum of one billion dollars has been given away by Americans, for various philanthropic purposes. Of this stupendous sum comparatively little went to the churches.

Rockefeller, for example, although an exuberant church-member, has given comparatively little money to church work. He has been interested in outside activities, chiefly educational and medical. Mrs. Russell Sage has been distributing her millions not among the churches which have been gradually deserting the poor, but she establishes a great fund for studying methods of improving the conditions of the poor, or she purchases an island in the Hudson river and dedicates it to the United States government. Carnegie builds libraries which are open not only to Protestants, but to Catholics, Jews, Mohammedans, Negroes. No lines are drawn. Phipps builds model tenements and D. O. Mills model hotels for improving the living conditions of people of small means. Last year Morris K. Jesup died. He was one of the most loyal of Presbyterians, but of his gifts not one-tenth went to church work, while nine-tenths was given to outside activities like the American Museum of Natural History. And Mr. Jesup's proportion for churches was very large compared with that of most givers. Even many Roman Catholics who have left fortunes have contributed not exclusively to the church as they probably would have done twenty or fifty years ago, but have favored all sorts of public causes. A wealthy Roman Catholic woman recently left considerable sums of money to Jewish institutions."

Race Suicide a Blessing.

Once more Dr. Woods Hutchinson has come to the rescue of our much-abused civilization. In September "Woman's Home Companion," he points out that not only are all wrong about the race-suicide problem, but there isn't any.

According to Doctor Hutchinson, the whole question is befogged by misconceptions. He says the question is not a new one, but is very old. An increasing population is a sign of civilization. As for our immediate forefathers, they can claim no credit for large families, for they either gave no thought to the question at all, or else welcomed children as future bread-winners.

"To sum up," he says, "I believe that the evidence is conclusive that race suicide, so far as it has yet gone, has proved an almost unmitigated blessing instead of a curse; that the race can never again return to the method of blind and wholesale reproduction without thought of the future. No class or group in the community which believes itself worthy to exist can of course view with equanimity any proposal to limit the offspring of marriage to less than three, or such number as may be necessary to secure the survival of that quota to adult age, so that the second generation may be at least a trifle more numerous than the first.

"On the other hand, biologic morality, while deprecating the production of children, who are likely to be born unfit, or become so from lack of proper support and training, glorifies and exalts as both the highest racial duty and the most precious individual privilege the bearing of children by those who are personally fit to bear and financially competent to rear such as will be of value to the state. There is no achievement better worth living for, no more valuable legacy that can be left to the future, no more enduring claim to honorable remembrance, than a family of well-born, well-reared children."

Americantis--Can It Be Cured?

"Hurry is the devil," says an Arabian proverb. Although we understand that the Oriental has a constitutional prejudice against haste, it might be well for us to consider the above proverb seriously applied to ourselves as a nation. The morning paper gives us a daily list of deaths by suicide, apoplexy and insanity--men in the prime of life, rushing into eternity, desperate because they are left behind in the race, or driven mad by the rush of the business world.

What is the matter? Is it the changing climate that stimulates the nervous system to abnormal activity? Is it the struggle for money? Is it the desire to emulate others, or is it a habit?

A distinguished foreigner in writing his impressions of us, says that we are not accomplishing anything more than if we were quiet; that we are doing it merely to give the impression of activity. We take ourselves too seriously. The woman who flutters about, creating confusion, is not the one who is doing the most work in the world.

Hurry means physical tension somewhere, and exhaustion afterward. Hurry suggests bad planning or careful execution. Hurry means loss of dignity and power. Hurry means fear, and fear is the greatest enemy to success.

Can we stop hurrying? Some answer that we must keep up with the procession, or drop out entirely. Let us see if we cannot conserve our strength, at least in small ways. Let us take thought and begin to reform. As tension expresses itself in bodily movements, we must first learn muscular control. Relaxation means letting go, and while we are learning to let go, we are getting ourselves trained to take hold again when the time comes, for relaxation teaches far more than rest.

In vain, people try to attain a calm manner with a tense body. When we have relaxed the muscles at will we may easily become quiet in manner, and peaceful in spirit. The bodily condition is the basis of real rest.

We will not hurry when we know the danger to the nervous system; when we realize fully, that we gain power by working quietly; when we believe that we are living in Eternity now. Theodore Dreiser in THE DECLINATOR for September.

The New Women in Old Rome.

The bold methods which they used in carrying their plans to a successful issue shocked the sedate historian Livy, who tells us that the matrons could be kept at home neither by persuasion, nor by a sense of modesty, nor by the authority of their husbands. They blocked up all the streets of the city and the approaches to the Forum, importuning men as they came down to the Forum to vote for restoration of their rights. The leader of the party opposed to them was Cato, who held display in dress and the new woman in like abhorrence. These are the two topics upon which he descends in his indignant speech against the repeal of the law. He cynically asks the women: "Are your ways more winning in public than in private and with other women's husbands than your own? And yet not even at home ought you to concern yourselves with the laws which are passed or repealed here. Our fathers have not wished women to manage even their private affairs without the direction of a guardian; they have wanted them to be under the control of their parents, their brothers, and their husbands. We by our present action, if the gods permit it, are letting them go into politics even, we are letting them appear in the Forum, and take a hand at public meetings and in the voting booths." Cato closes his appeal to the men with this gloomy picture of the future: "Pray, what will they not assail, if they carry this point? Call to mind all the principles governing them by which your ancestors have held the presumption of women in check, and made them subject to their husbands. Though they have been restrained by all these, still you can scarcely keep them in bounds. Tell me, if you let them seize privileges and wrest them from you one by one, and finally become your equals, do you think that you can stand them? As soon as they have begun to be your equals they will be your superiors."--From "Women and Public Affairs under the Roman Republic," by Frank Frost Abbott, in the September Scribner.

What Organized Farming Does.

A grower had a car of potatoes for sale. A buyer offered him a dollar a bushel at the station, but the price was not "fancy" enough in the grower's estimation, so he consigned the car to a commission merchant in Cleveland, Ohio. After a long delay he received a check for two dollars and sixty-five cents, the consignee explaining that the shipment had arrived in bad order, that the potatoes were decaying and that the check enclosed represented the revenue realized from their sale--less, of course, the freight charges and his commission. The grower accepted the two dollars and sixty-five cents for that car of potatoes when he might as well have had $400.00.

"In dozens of other cases growers who consigned lost not only the shipments outright but were actually compelled to pay freight charges after the commission merchant had gobbled up the returns of their season's labor."

Then these Texas growers woke up and organized "locals" and a strong central organization which paid its manager $5,000 a season. The same grower who had to take $2.65 for a car of fine early potatoes realized, through

ALL UNSTRUNG.

Many Gettysburg People Suffer from Nervous Troubles and Don't Know Why.

Thousands of cases of kidney trouble show few outward symptoms except nervousness, depression, languor, irritability and an inclination to worry over trifles. It is generally due to the poisonous action of uric acid on blood and nerves, and can't be cured except by curing the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure these ills by curing the kidneys. Gettysburg women are learning it. Here's a local case.

Mrs. J. Warren Gilbert, 128 W. Middle St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "My health was very poor for some time, owing to a weakness of the kidneys. I had nearly all the symptoms that usually accompany a bad case of kidney trouble, such as backache, restlessness at night, dizzy spells and headaches. I took many medicines but received no benefit until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Store. They gave me relief at once and in a short time I was without a sign of the trouble. I heartily endorse this remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Facts for Weak Women

Nine-tenths of all the sickness of women is due to some derangement or disease of the organs distinctly feminine. Such sickness can be cured—is cured every day by

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

It acts directly on the organs affected and is at the same time a general restorative tonic for the whole system. It cures female complaint right in the privacy of home. It makes unnecessary the disagreeable questioning, examinations and local treatment so universally insisted upon by doctors, and so abhorrent to every modest woman.

We shall not particularize here as to the symptoms of those peculiar affections incident to women, but those wanting full information as to their symptoms and means of positive cure are referred to the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1003 pages, newly revised

Governors of Pennsylvania

FRANCIS RAWN SHUNK—1845-1848.

Francis Rawn Shunk, the grandson of a Palatine immigrant, had little education, but he devoted his spare time to his books and when a mere boy of fifteen became a schoolteacher. He followed this avocation for nine years, employing his summer vacations in doing farm work, devoting his evenings to study. He was appointed a clerk in the surveyor general's office, and it was here that he made the acquaintance of young David Porter, afterward governor. A warm friendship sprang up between the two young men. They studied law together. Mr Shunk was admitted to the bar in September, 1816. Later he became a clerk in the house of representatives and afterward was promoted to the chief clerkship. Governor Porter appointed him secretary of state in 1839. He was elected governor in 1845 and was re-elected in 1847. Owing to ill health he was obliged to resign his office July 9, 1848, and he died at Harrisburg three weeks after his resignation.

the association, a net profit of $325 an acre on common red carrots. In its first business year the association sold 369,064 crates of Bermuda onions for which it returned $250,567 to the growers. But concrete individual cases are more interesting: at Kingsville thirty-three growers had ninety-two acres in onions. The association handled the crop and paid them an amount, in net profits, sufficient to average $157.60 an acre. The onion acreage was far greater before the association took hold of it, but scarcely a grower did better than make bare expenses.—Forrest body's.

To a Katydid.

Somewhere in the clover,
When the twilight falls,
There's a gipsy rover
Who forever calls
In an aggravating
Nervous kind of cry,
Just reiterating:
Summer goes. Good-bye!

Nonsense! Who believes you?
In the clover hid,
What is it deceives you,
Gipsy Katydidd?
Bees are making honey,
Birds are making song;
You are being funny,
Or my guess is wrong.
Still you call, and still you
Warn me it is so:
Tell me, Gipsy, will you,
How you chance to know?
You're an arch alarmer
In the clover lost:
Quoth our friend, the farmer,
Six weeks more to frost!

Careful, little hunter,
In your clover shack!
Watch out lest Old Winter
Happen on your track!
If by any fate he Catching at a clue,
Finds out just what Katy
Did, good-bye to you.

[Frank Dempster Sherman in "Success Magazine."]

The Democratic Magazine.

Pennsylvania's recent Democratic convention is covered at length and pictures of the Democratic State candidates are printed in the September number of the National Monthly now on the news stands. This is the new and very excellent magazine of which Chairman Norman E. Mack of the Democratic National Committee is the editor and publisher and which is doing an effective work in an effort to strengthen the Democratic party in the nation.

Hon. Alton B. Parker, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals of New York state, and Democratic candidate for President in 1904, reviews the new corporation tax at length in the September number of the National Monthly. Every business man in the country should read what as great an authority as Judge Parker has to say about this Republican tax. Hon.
Champ Clark, minority leader of the House of Representatives, writes an exhaustive and critical review of the Republican revision of the tariff upwards, in the September National Monthly. It is needless to state that the gentleman from Missouri calls a spade a spade and when he says that the votes of some of the Republican members of Congress on the tariff were handed over to the corporations in return for contributions made to the Republican Congressional Campaign fund of last year Mr. Clark seems to know what he is talking about.

THE HANOVER FAIR

Silver Jubilee, Sept. 14-17, to be a Record Breaker.

Extensive preparations are being made by the managers of the Hanover Fair to make the 25th annual exhibition, Sep. 14-17, better than ever. The new building and grounds have been put in first class conditions, an annex built to the poultry house and 60 additional horse stalls erected.
The applications for space in all the departments are already numerous, and the display will be extensive and highly creditable.

Running races will be a feature, and the pacing and trotting races ought to be first-class, the purses amounting to $4250. There will be four days' racing, beginning on Tuesday, 14th.

The attractions embraces Rex's Comedy Circus, with highly trained ponies and a trick mule; Granada and Fedora, high wire specialists, who show an elephant walking a rope high above the earth; Mlle Omega, another wire artist who performs on a silver wire; the Carl Danmann family, gymnasts and head balancers; and Debalado's Trained Sheep and Pig. Each is the best of its class, and their feats are wonderful, sensational or comical to the highest degree.

The poultry show promises to be one of the best in the State, the premiums having been increased in this,

New Invention by Natives.

John S. and J. B. Weaver of New Oxford, have received letters patent on a new and improved metal water trough which promises to revolutionize the trough business throughout the entire country. They can be knocked down and closely nested for shipment which means a great saving in freight and export charges. They can be put together by any one with a screw driver, and are made water tight by means of special patented gasket used on no other trough. The inventors intend placing this trough on the market in the near future in various sizes and in galvanized iron only. They will not rust or burst from freezing, and never need paint. The manufacturing plant will be a valuable addition to the industrial life of New Ox-

'KAPTIN KIDDO' IS OUT NEXT SUNDAY

North American's New Comic Series
an Attractive Surprise.

The North American promises something out of the ordinary in the way of a feature for its comic section, and it will introduce it to its readers on Sunday, August 29.

The title of the new series is "The Turbble Tales of Kaptin Kiddo."

Grace G. Widerseim draws the very attractive pictures of the "Kaptin's" adventures and Margaret G. Hays furnishes the tales. Both are out of the ordinary and both are attractive.

The little boy in the series is the same little boy that lives in every home where there is a little boy, and that same little boy is possessed of an imagination that is always active.

"Most every parent knows of a "Kaptin Kiddo."

The style of the work and the reputation of the joint authors ought to insure the immediate success of the series.

Old Cider

Ten years ago, Frank E. Weigle residing with his grandparents, Mr.
and Mrs. A. P. Weigle, of Hamilton township, during the cider season, filled a pop bottle with cider and hung it in the well to have fresh in the winter. The rope that held the bottle broke, and the bottle went to the bottom. Last week the well was cleaned and the bottle containing the liquid recovered. The cider was as clear and sweet as it was 10 years ago when it went to the bottom of the well.

The Renewal a Strain.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic which may avert so much serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

Last Day to Register Sept. 1.
There is one fact that every Democratic voter, and particularly every Democratic Register or tax Assessor should remember, and that is, that young men who voted on age last fall MUST be Registered or they can not vote under any circumstances. Others who have paid a State or County tax within two years may be able to swear in their votes, if they are not upon the Registry, but the voter who cast his first ballot in 1908 has no possible chance to do this. He is not upon any duplicate, has no tax assessed against him, and consequently cannot qualify to having paid a tax, as is necessary where voters are left off the Registry. By failing to register he practically and effectually disfranchises himself. There is no way by which he can vote, and Democrats should remember and see that every young Democrat who voted on age in 1908, is upon the polling list of 1909. And this must be seen to before the evening of September first. Don't forget this.

Democratic Candidates Notified.
S. Miley Miller, Democratic County Chairman was a member of notification Committee meeting in Williamsport on Wednesday of last week. Over sixty were in the party and it was said to be one of the largest notification meetings ever held. There was a reception in the morning at the Park Hotel in Williamsport and at noon the Committee and Candidates were guests of C. LaRue Munson, the Democratic Candidate, for Justice of Supreme Court, at dinner at Park Hotel. The notification meeting following was in the Court House, Charles J. Reilly, Esq. made the address of welcome, Hon. Bruce Sterling made the formal notification. Addresses were made by candidates C. LaRue Munson for Justice of Supreme Court, whose address in full will be given next week, George W. Kipp for State Treasurer and J. Wood Clark for Auditor General.

Contract for Election Houses.
At the regular meeting of County Commissioners, J. A. Kane, Z. H. Cashman and W. K. Weikert, on Tuesday of last week, the following bids were opened for the election houses to be erected in Hamilton and Hamiltonban township.
W. H. Gallagher, Ham'tnban, $349.37
John T. McIntire, Hamilton, 236.06
G. Harry Roth, both houses 769.00
John S. Wolf, Hamilton, 327.15
" Hamiltonban 368.25
C. A. Cashman, Hamilton, 447.00
N. S. Brown, Hamilton, 228.50
" Hamiltonban, 268.50
N. S. Brown being the lowest bidder for both houses was awarded the contract upon filing bond with approved security.
The Commissioners employed Robt. Stair, architect, of York, to prepare the plans and specifications for the iron reinforced with concrete bridge over the creek on eastern side of Fairfield on road to Gettysburg. The County Commissioners by this action have taken a step which ought to be commended by every citizen. Bridge builders have been making plans and specifications for sometime and then bidding on their own plans. It is believed that an architect to commissioners making plans and seeing to it that contractors comply with all the specifications, will result in a much better system and work than old way.

Home from Convention.
Mr. E. P. Miller of the Gettysburg Department Store returned on Monday evening from convention of the Retail Merchant Association of Pennsylvania held at Pottstown. Mr. Miller took a prominent part at the convention, being a member of the Committee on Credentials and was in charge of the effort to win for Gettysburg the convention next year. The Gettysburg boom was said to have been well started and managed but being the turn of the western part of the State for the Convention. Butler was selected. The fight should make Gettysburg a sure winner next year.

Jones, 5 months and 28 days. He is survived by four children. George of Butler township, John of Franklin township, Misses Sarah and Susan at home. His wife preceded him in death 35 years ago. His body was laid to rest at 11 o'clock last Monday morning in the Greenmount cemetery at Arendtsville. He was a lifelong member of the Reformed church and was of a quiet disposition, honest in all his dealings and very industrious. He will be missed by his many friends and neighbors in this community.
Mrs. MARY BLACK, wife of the late William Black, who resided at Mt. Pleasant with her sons Matthew and George, died very suddenly at the residence of her daughter, whom she was visiting at Columbia, Pa. Her age was about 68 years. Her remains were taken to Littlestown last week and services were held at the Reformed church at Silver Run. Interment in the cemetery nearby. She is survived by three sons and two daughters. The sons are John, of Columbia, Matthew and George of Mt. Pleasant. The daughters reside in Washington and Columbia.
Mrs. SARAH JACOBS, widow of John B. Jacobs, died at her home in Zulfinger, near Waynesboro, on Thursday Aug. 19th, aged 85 years and 7 days. She was born in 1824 in East Berlin, a daughter of Daniel Wolff, and was reared there and at "Barren Church," near Dillsburg. Since her marriage in 1847 she and her husband lived on farms in Franklin county and in Maryland, near the State line. She is survived by nine children, her husband having died in 1882.

Oiling Street Demonstration.
Mr. Shetron, representative of the Atlantic Refining Company was in Gettysburg last week and called upon the Highway Committee composed of J. A. Tawney, Wm. D. Armor and J. A. Kitzmiller and requested permission to make a demonstration of oil streets. It was proposed to oil about two streets of the town at a point where it would be best seen. The Highway Committee gave Mr. Shetron permission to make the demonstration.
A special representative of the Company will have charge of the demonstration, one who has studied the subject and knows how it ought to be done. The streets are usually first cleaned or swept and then the oil is applied. In places where oiling has been done for a number of years it has been found that two oilings a year is sufficient to keep down the dust. When the streets are well oiled it has been found that rains do not soak in but run off better and the streets are not as much disturbed by rain. As long as the effect of the oil lasts the streets can be said to be dustless.
The material for the demonstration is already on the ground, 65 barrels of the oil, having been received by the Reading railroad last week, and the demonstration may be expected at an early date. It is usual to let the oil street set for at least thirty six hours before being used and the course pursued is to rope one half of the street for that period and when that is set finish the other side. The two squares that will be taken for the demonstration has not been determined but it will be in the central part of the town.
Oiling streets to keep down dust is no longer an experiment. It has been done for a series of years in many places and found successful. In the city of Buffalo many miles of dirt street can be found which have been oiled twice a year and all through the hot summer months, traversed by autos, horse and wagon are without dust. The cost of it is said to be within the reach of any community, that the oil used is a crude oil and is sold for three cents a gallon and it has been represented to a number of our citizens that oil streets could be had for the price of sprinkled streets. If this can be successfully demonstrated the Civic Club could take up the matter of changing from water to oil and see whether the citizens would not contribute liberally enough to make Gettysburg a dustless town, a sure way of keeping the town clean.

Fairfield is making the experiment of a half square. A barrel of the oil was sent to each of three of Fairfield's merchants, Messrs. Byers, Neely and Reindollar, and they selected a half square and placed the oil on same and have had no dust on that portion of street since.

Several Arrests

SUGGESTIONS FOR FARMERS

A DESTRUCTIVE CABBAGE PEST IS AT WORK.

The Remedy or What Must be Done to Keep Down the Pest and Save Crop.

At this time of year State Zoologist Surface, at Harrisburg, is receiving an unusual number of inquiries concerning a destructive pest of cabbage, which appears to be working in practically all parts of Pennsylvania and makes itself manifest by curling the leaves, stunting the growth of the plants, and causing them to look as though covered by mildew. A close examination of the infested plants shows that they are covered by hundreds of little gray plant lice or aphids, which especially crowd close together in the curled parts of the leaves and live by injecting a poison into the leaf and sucking out the modified sap.

They are true sucking insects, and can not be killed by the poisons such as Paris green and arsenate of lead, which can safely be applied for the common green cabbage worm. They are the cabbage aphids or plant lice, and are to be killed either by fumigation with some gas like the fumes of carbon bisulfide in a vessel turned over the plants; or, far better, by spraying with a contact insecticide such as one pound of whale oil soap in five gallons of water, or ten per cent. kerosene emulsion, or strong solutions of soft soap, or very strong tobacco decoctions.

It is necessary in applying the spray that a side-turned nozzle be used on the end of a short extension rod, and that the liquid be applied with considerable pressure, in order to throw it well in among the curled leaves, striking the bodies of all the pests. Those which are not touched by the spray liquid at the time of spraying will not be injured and will increase in multiplication at an alarming rate. The leaves that are so badly curled as to protect the plant lice effectively from contact with the spray liquid should be cut or pulled and at once destroyed, either by burning or by stamping underfoot.

If the spraying is effective the results can be seen within twenty-four hours, and if there should remain any pests alive at the end of that time, it is advisable to repeat the operation with a little stronger material. It is important that all hopelessly stunted, sickly or feeble plants should be gathered and burned by throwing them into a hot fire; or fed to stock at once, in order to get rid of the pests which they contain.

Memory Studies.

A small boy went into a South Boston drug store, wrinkled his face, rubbed his head and rubbed his left foot up and down his right leg in an effort to remember something that had escaped him.

"Say," he began, "will you tell me the name of the place where we Americans have so many soldiers?"

"Fort Sheridan?"

"Oh, no. It's farther away than that."

"The Philippines?"

"That ain't just it, but it's somewhere around there."

"Perhaps you mean Manila?"

"Manila! That's right! I knew I would get it after awhile. I want a bottle of manila extract for flavorin'. They're goin' to have ice cream."—Boston Record.

Old Time Temperance.

The first temperance society is said to have been founded by Margrave Frederick V. in 1600, and it is instructive to learn that the noble members of that society were bound by a pledge good for two years not to drink more than seven bumpers of wine with any meal nor more than fourteen bumpers a day. They were, however, permitted to quench any surplus of thirst with beer and to drink one glass of whisky on the side. By this ideal of abstinence may be gauged the ordinary drinking habits of our forefathers in the good old times when knighthood was in flower.—Morris Hillquit in Socialism.

His Walking Papers.

"My sister 'll be down in a minute," said little Clarence, who was entertaining the young man in the parlor. "I heard her tellin' maw a little while ago that she was goin' to give you your written permission to perambulate tonight. What do you reckon she meant by that?"

"I think I know, Clarence," said the young man, reaching for his hat. "You may tell her, if you please, that I have decided not to wait for it."—Exchange.

Parliamentary Procedure.

"How about my letter of proposal?" demanded the young congressman. "It has been advanced to a second reading," answered the haughty Washington belle.—Kansas City Journal.

To draw a caricature of our contemporaries is not difficult. It requires only a small portion of talent and a great want of courtesy.—Disraeli.

A Traveling Man's Experience.

"I must tell you my experience on an East bound O. R. & N. R. R. train from Pendleton to LeGrande, Ore., writes Sam A. Garner, a well known traveling man. "I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said, 'There is a woman sick unto death in the car. I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic; her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a deathlike look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her and giving her whiskey. I went to my suit case and got my bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of the medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil; then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into LeGrande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the husband to be used in case another dose should be needed, but by the time the train ran into LeGrande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car.' In acting on executive nominations the Senate shall sit with open doors, and, in confirming or rejecting the nominations of the Governor, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and shall be entered on the journal," so as to read as follows:—

He shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all the members of the Senate, appoint a Secretary of the Commonwealth and an Attorney General during pleasure, a Superintendent of Public Instruction for four years, and such other officers of the Commonwealth as he is or may be authorized by the Constitution or by law to appoint; he shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen, in offices to which he may appoint, during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session; he shall have power to fill any vacancy that may happen, during the recess of the Senate, in the office of Auditor General, State Treasurer, Secretary of Internal Affairs or Superintendent of Public Instruction, in a judicial office, or in any other elective office which he is or may be authorized to fill; if the vacancy shall happen during the session of the Senate, the Governor shall nominate to the Senate, before their final adjournment, a proper person to fill said vacancy; but in any such case of vacancy, in an elective office, a person shall be chosen to said office on the next election day appropriate to such office, according to the provisions of this Constitution, unless the vacancy shall happen within two calendar months immediately preceding such election day, in which case the election for said office shall be held on the second succeeding election day appropriate to such office. A RIVAL'S DOWNFALL

Out of Bitterness the Lovers Snatched Happiness.

By ESTHER AINSLEE.

(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.)

If Dalzell's store advertised a sale of silk dress goods in the Monday issue of the Rosemont Banner it was a certainty that the paper's Tuesday night number would contain an ad. from Thompson's store across the street telling of bargains in satins, with a side line of embroideries, at which Rosemont smiled appreciatively and reaped the benefit.

The town was proud of the proprietors of the two leading dry goods stores, for most of the young men left for the adjacent big city when it came "time to make their way in the world," but Malcolm Dalzell and Lewis Thompson within a year of each other settled down to make a living in their home town.

Perhaps it were better to say Rosemont was proud of their enterprise, for Lewis Thompson was not the type to inspire affection in the hearts of his townsmen. A man cannot be blamed for lack of magnetism and an attractive nature, but nevertheless he suffers for it, and Thompson possessed besides these drawbacks a hot headed, quarrelsome disposition and a theory that every man had a right to look out for himself to the exclusion of any possible rights of others.

His aggressiveness made him enemies where Malcolm Dalzell won friends by his mere cheerfulness and diplomacy. But each flourished on his own side of the street.

Not only were they rivals in business, but from the days of carrying schoolbooks there had seemingly been but one girl in the world in the eyes of each, Milly Wainwright, with the waves of soft brown hair and eyes that matched, with the sweet voice and appealing little ways.

Shrewd people even said the reason both boys stayed in Rosemont was that each was afraid to leave the other a clear field with Milly, who had never shown any preference between the two.

Lewis Thompson was a different man with her. Her mere presence smoothed and softened the aggressive young business man, and she smiled incredulously when stories of his cold shrewdness and overreaching deals came to her ears.

Yet unknown to herself Malcolm Dalzell occupied a place in her life from which no one could dislodge him. Milly was in the delicious and dreamy state of indecision which a girl always prolongs unwittingly. Life was sweet to her, and even the growing wildness of her younger brother, Dick, which was aging her father and mother, had not power to do more than depress her momentarily.

"It's only because Dick is young," she told her mother half indignantly. "He will see the mistake of his ways before he ever does anything really wrong. Why, Dick wouldn't be really bad. It's absurd!"

She was great chums with the handsome eighteen-year-old brother, and because she did have faith in him the boy turned to her always in his rare spells of repentance. At present he had gone to work in a bank in the next town, six miles distant.

The Rosemont Banner had two columns of description, speculation and denunciation when Thompson's store was robbed. Malefactors were rare in Rosemont, and the night watchman's work was perfunctory, but nevertheless Lewis Thompson discovered a back window pried open and nearly $200 worth of silks and laces missing.

Three weeks later he was reduced to explosive rage by the discovery that again his store had been entered. This time a hundred dollars' worth of goods vanished. In his wrath the owner of the store telegraphed for a city detective and established a night patrol for the block. The city detective looked important, smoked good cigars of the leading citizens, who wanted to tell him their theories as to the robbery, had a very pleasant time and departed with dark hints as to future developments.

"At any rate," Lewis Thompson said vigorously, "with Maloney on hand as a watchman the thief won't get another chance!"

"It's hard luck, Lewis," sympathized Malcolm Dalzell with his business rival. Thompson regarded him coldly. Of late Milly had been in Dalzell's company more than he liked.

"Thanks," he said. "It's funny the thief doesn't attack your premises, Malcolm. I don't understand such favoritism unless it's because he knows where the best goods are." He smiled, somewhat maliciously as he made the fling.

"Superiority has its drawbacks then," Dalzell said quietly, holding his temper. He understood Thompson's grudge against him, and could afford to be magnanimous for he had begun to cherish a certainty that he had distanced Thompson, with Milly. For to be would endure much.

Lewis Thompson did not relax his vigilance as the weeks went by. One Thursday night as he made one of his personal trips of inspection, about a o'clock he started for his store on a run after finding the watchman, Maloney, knocked senseless at the corner. And he was rewarded. The revolver in his hand covered the dark form of the man standing at the rear window with the faint gleam of a dark lantern on the floor beside him.

Yet even Lewis Thompson was speechless when after his trembling fingers had turned on the rear light he saw the man before him was none other than Malcolm Dalzell, who stood white and cold facing his captor.

"I—I can't comprehend," Thompson stammered, "what's this?"

"The man before him moistened his lips. "Lewis," he said at last, "will you believe me if I say, in spite of this, I'm not the robber—that it's just unfortunate circumstances that have brought this about? Will you?"

Lewis Thompson recovered his coolness, and he laughed shortly, sarcastically, glancing significantly at the dark lantern, the fallen jimmy, the goods piled at hand for removal.

"I don't see any one but you, Dalzell," he said curtly. "You've got to take your medicine. You can plead kleptomania, you know. Rising young business man, easy circumstances, no need to rob—why, of course, it's kleptomania!"

There was a little triumph edging into his laugh as what this meant to his rival dawned upon him. And it was likewise dawning upon his captive, who shut his jaw when the marshal, hastily summoned, almost refused to obey Thompson's command to take the prisoner to the jail.

"Go ahead, Smith," was all that Malcolm Dalzell would say, and he walked to the lockup with his head in the air.

The whole town shared the sensations of Smith the next morning, and the Rosemont Banner exhausted all its heavy black faced type that evening and paused only for absence of more space. It was paralyzing, horrifying, this downfall of a man like Malcolm Dalzell, one of those queer croppings out of hidden tendencies that sometimes destroy the world's best.

The three days that intervened before his preliminary hearing drew lines in Dalzell's face and gave him a pallor that usually it takes ages to bring. Yet he maintained those close shut lips and, further than stating he was not guilty, refused to talk.

When he faced his friends and neighbors at the preliminary hearing there was a trace of proud defiance in his glance that yet was strangely hurt. For on many faces he read a dawning wavering in allegiance to him.

Much talk had bred suspicion, and every one knew of the long rivalry between the two men. What more natural than that Dalzell should attempt to barress to ruin his opponent? So they waited for the sensational disclosures.

The sensation came. As usual with sensations, it was quite different from what was expected. This white faced figure, with eyes reddened by tears, who suddenly presented herself struck pity from the heart of the hardest. She spoke rapidly, breathlessly.

"Malcolm did not do it!" she protested, with tight clasped hands. "If he won't tell I will, now that I know the truth! It was Dick, my brother, and Malcolm, who also was watching, saw him and entered Thompson's store to save him, to get him away, to help him, and when Lewis Thompson came upon him—he, Malcolm, would not tell because—"

Milly Wainwright's voice died away, but the end of the sentence was furnished by Malcolm Dalzell's quick step to her side and hiding her tears on his shoulder. Both had made their sacrifice for each other and out of the bitterness had snatched happiness. And Rosemont, with the fickleness of the human race, said it served Lewis Thompson right and he should have had more common sense.

Steeplejack in Wrang.

Bob and Jim were Jacks of all trades and worked together. One summer's morning Bob came round to Jim's house at the early hour of 3 and managed to wake him.

"Now, then," he cried, "hurry up. There's a big factory chimney wants pulling down about a mile away from here, and I got the tip from the factory foreman that if we could knock twenty feet off it before the authorities were about it would save the factory the expenses of a scaffold and it would mean a five pound note apiece for you and me."

"What, ho!" cried Jim. "Let's go." Their destination reached, they climbed to the top of the chimney, and soon masses of brickwork were falling to earth. A man who lived near was disturbed by the noise and started to make a fuss. "Here, Bob," cried Jim, "you climb down and quiet that fellow. Keep him talking while I finish this job up here." So Bob climbed down and engaged the indignant man in conversation.

Suddenly Jim heard Bob calling to him and looking down, saw his friend pestulating wildly and beckoning him to come down. So down Jim came. "What's the matter?" he asked. "Let's go home, Jim, thundering quick. We've been pulling down the wrong chimney!"—London Answers.

Indignant

"I am a big, heavily bearded man who looks as though he could lift half hundredweights at each hand as easily as he picks up his palette.

An elderly rustic who had been standing watching him painting by the roadside approached him.

"No offense sir," he began, "but is there anything the matter w'yer?"

"No," answered Dauber. "What makes you ask?"

"Yer hair's lame ar ye yer?"

"Lame? Good gracious no!"

"Yer hairn't a misfortune in any way—the cut or the lumber—thaf's kind o' hair yer yer?"

"No, I'm as well as I have always been."

The rustic drew himself up and gazed scornfully at the artist.

"An' yer call yerself a man an' can't at ther n-doin' o' that?" he said.

"Well, I'm blest!"—Exchange.

The Foolish Railroad.

The stage fare from Huntville to Glasgow—twenty-five miles—was $1.50. This stage carried the mail, and it had to go. When the roads were so muddy horses could not pull the stage a double yoke of oxen took their places. It was slow traveling, but they got through. The steamboat fare from Glasgow to St. Louis in the early fifties was $7. That included stateroom and meals, and if the boat was held up a week or two on a sand bar the accommodations went on without extra charge. The steamboat owners never believed the railroads could successfully compete with them. The way they looked at it people wouldn't be willing to travel 100 or 200 miles tied down to one seat in a small car when they might be enjoying the freedom of a big and handsomely furnished boat. "Then how are they going to find room for an orchestra and a dance?" an old river captain wanted to know. "No place to eat or drink; no room to move about; just sit still all day long on a little wooden bench. Why, it's downright foolishness!"—Macon Republican.

The Eye on the Red Flag.

There are many odd bits of bunting unfurled to the breeze in New York harbor, but the oddest of all perhaps is the ensign that flutters from the staff of a little craft that rounds the Battery sea wall promptly at noon every day and then disappears up the North river. It is a triangular flag with a flaming red background, from which stands out in bold relief a great cyclopean eye. Inside the pilothouse is a man in blue coat and brass buttons, who views the water front and passing craft through a long telescope. This is the supervisor of the harbor. His duties are to see that the regulations are observed in the East river, the upper bay and the Hudson river, that the channels are kept free of obstructions and that the city's docks and ferries are being looked after as they should be. As soon as he steps on board his vessel the unique ensign is raised. It signifies to all nautical folk. "I've got my eye on you. Watch out!"—New York Sun.

Some Handicaps.

"Sir, I wish to marry your daughter," faltered the young man.

"You do, eh?" exclaimed the fond parent. "Well, I have been rather expecting this, and to be thoroughly orthodox, I shall put a few questions to you. Do you drink?"

"No, sir. I abhor liquor."

"You do, eh? Smoke?"

"I never use tobacco in any form."

"Well, I didn't suppose you ate it. Do you frequent the race tracks?"

"I never saw a horse race in my life, sir."

"Um-m-m. Play cards for money?"

"Empathically no, sir."

"Well, young man, I must say you are heavily handicapped. My daughter is a thorough society girl, and I can't for the life of me see what she is going to do with you. However, it's her funeral, and if she wants to undertake the job—why, God bless you both!"—Washington Post.

Woman's Work.

After dinner the other evening Mr. and Mrs. Brown started to speak of their respective duties, and soon an argument as to whether the husband or the wife had the hardest work to perform was in full swing. First Brown warbled and then wifey sang. "A wife," argued the good lady, "has to cook, wash dishes, clothe the kids, scrub the floors, sweep the house, make the beds, build the fires, carry up coal, nail slats on the back fence, dig!"

"Is that all?" sarcastically interrupted Mr. Brown.

"No," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. Brown. "In addition to those duties every wife has to keep her husband from making a fool of himself!"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Anchored Him.

"I was at a reception with a certain young lady the other night," said a man who always tells the truth, "and her father was there too. He doesn't think much of me, and he followed us about from room to room—wouldn't let us get out of his sight for a minute. Well, I knew the old man was an awful tight wad, so I thought up a scheme. I carelessly dropped a half dollar on the floor while he was looking. He moved over and put his foot on it and never stirred until the party broke up. Meaningful daughter and I beat it and enjoyed ourselves."—Cleveland Leader.

Saving Cuff Addresses.

Folded up with the laundry bill was another slip of paper, on which were several lines of fine writing.

"What is this?" asked the new customer.

"Those are the addresses we copied off your cuffs," said the clerk. "We always make a record of the addresses we find on cuffs and return them with the laundry, so if our customers have not put them down any place else they won't be lost."—New York Press.

When There Was More of It.

An old chap with hardly a hair on his head snapped at the young barber on the completion of a hair cut:

"You are not the thorough workman your father was, my boy. He used to take a good half hour to cut my hair."

More Than Liberal.

Mr. Highmoss—You gave your son a liberal education, did you not? Mr. Muntoburn—Disgracefully liberal. His four years at college cost me $27,000.—Chicago Tribune.

OLD FASHIONED CELEBRATION

EAST BERLIN, Aug. 30.—The success of the basket picnic of John R. Kuhn with procession was a grand success, hundreds of people attending, welcoming him back to that place, and enjoying what Mr. Kuhn's hospitality had provided. Two bands were on hand, one from Dover and the other from Spring Grove, with the orchestra from latter place. The procession formed on the square and was led by N. B. Sprengle and W. H. Lease as marshals on horse back. Next in line were two autos, followed by the band wagon drawn by four horses, and followed by a long line of surreys and cuggies, and two horse wagons, there being fifty three conveyances in line. It was an old time jollification. The procession went through the town, crossing the West End bridge, going toward Kuhn's farm, where they met John R. Kuhn, who halted the procession, and had the band play "Home Sweet Home." Then they crossed the bridge down along the Conowago over the pine hill, then out Bender's lane to the pike where the procession stopped, and band played. Then they moved down the pike to the grove, where the procession disbanded, after more music by the bands. The occasion will be one long remembered, and everyone wishes Mr. Kuhn success in his undertakings to extend East Berlin. In the grove Mr. Kuhn has built a dancing floor 30x48 feet, and a nice stand for the orchestra. It was estimated that over 1500 people were at the grove in the evening.

Mr. Kuhn has now bought three tracks of land. The Bender farm of 97 acres, the farm of C. S. Wolf, formerly Daniel Bender, Jr. place of 60 acres, and the West grove of 30 acres. Mr. Kuhn will make a fine park of the West grove, and has five boats on the dam.

How Prof. Anderson Invented Foods Shot from Guns

He was seeking a way to break up starch granules, so the digestive juices could get to them.

Cooking or baking only begins to do that. No old-time method breaks up all of the granules.

So he conceived the idea of blasting those granules to pieces by an explosion of steam.

And these foods resulted—the most delicious, most digestible cereal foods ever created.

Each kernel, by the explosion, is puffed to eight times size. It is made four times as porous as bread.

It is made nut-like and crisp, ready to melt in the mouth.

They are made so enticing that children delight in them. Grown folks, too.

They are so irresistible that seventeen million dishes were consumed last month.

When will you find them out?

Puffed Wheat—10c

These are the foods invented by Prof. Anderson, and this is his curious process:

The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees.

That fierce heat turns the moisture in the grain to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

(32)

Puffed Rice—15c

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles.

The kernels of grain are expanded eight times. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grain.

One package will tell you why people delight in them. Order it now.
